COMSTOCK MINING NEWS.

Market Growing Thinner—The Consolidated Virginia Water Fast Running Down—All Again Satisfactory at the Flooded Mines—The South End Looking Well—Ophir and the East Ore Body.

The Enterprise of the 9th has the following concerning stocks and the mines:

The stock market has been somewhat shaky during the past two or three days, and in several instances prices have fallen below the low rates that have so long ruled that they seem to have frozen into a little notch of their own. All things considered, however, it was hardly to be expected that there would be anything seen but a decline. The outlook for outburst of water in the Consolidated Virginia was a thing calculated to shock the nerves of the timid, and the only wonder is that a greater effect was not seen when news of the occurrence reached San Francisco. Had it not been at a time when dividends were near at hand we should doubtless have seen much stock thrown upon the market, but as it was the majority of the owners wanted the dividend, and in order to get it determined to take the chances, as did the ungodly in the time of Noah, of there being much of a flood.

The indications at present are that the inflow of water will be overcome without there being any interference with the operations in the ore breasts or of falling off in the amount of ore extracted, but it will, of course cause temporary inconvenience and will delay operations for a time in the lower levels of the Gould and Curry. As the Gould and Curry is at present non-productive this is of little consequence compared to what it would have been had the water flowed in and filled up the lower levels of the California and Consolidated Virginia. As soon as the reservoir tapped shall have exhausted itself the Gould and Curry—in which will then be only dead water—may be pumped out and operations on the 1900 level resumed.

The Savage and Hale and Norcross companies are again making good headway in their lower levels, and the indications now are that the latter will this time succeed in establishing a foothold with a standing pump at a point 50 feet below the 2000 level. The Justice mine, at the south end, is constantly improving at several points, and though the stock is down in consequence of the bad condition of the financial affairs of the company, the mine is steadily increasing its yield of ore. It is now supplying two mills, and judging from the developments that are being made, will at no distant day be able to furnish ore to as many more. There is also a prospect of the Alta, Lady Washington, Silver Hill and some other mines in that neighborhood furnishing ore for milling before many months. The outlook at the south end of the Comstock is just now much better than it has been in some years.

The Ophir Company will shortly begin crosscutting on their 1900 level, when we shall no doubt hear good news of the east body at that point. In the Consolidated Virginia and California they are making good developments to the eastward and in due time we may expect something to be found in the Best and Belcher and Mexican mines at the same advanced line.

The mines at Gold Hill—Yellow Jacket, Imperial, Belcher and Crown Point—are meeting with prospects that encourage the belief that they will presently cut into rich ore. Indeed, the chances are just as good for finding ore that will pay $400 or $500 per ton as they are for finding ore that will pay $10 or $15. To find the richer kinds is just as natural as it is to find the poorer, and to produce one kind probably costs nature no greater effort than it does to turn out the other.

TREE PLANTING.—A number of trees brought here last Fall from the nurseries at Reno, and which have been kept rooted in sacks of earth during the winter, will be planted this Spring. The present season will demonstrate whether these and the trees planted last Fall will grow in the soil and climate of this locality; and if they will there will be extensive tree planting next Fall, and in the course of forty or fifty years the now barren sides of Pony canyon, and the slopes of Lander Hill and Central Hill and Mount Prometheus will bloom and blossom as the rose, and our posterity can sit out under their own vine and fig tree, with none to molest or make them afraid. —Austin Reville.

RENO has caught the "mush and milk social" fever, and now the male and female lights of society retire to couches which don't run down precipices and climb trees, and fall into a den of bears, and get swallowed up in an earthquake, and make the round trip from purgatory to hell in six hours. —Sac. Bee.

The Ritchie mine was sold at Bodie last week to F. Hankey of San Francisco. Terms reserved.

The weather in Bodie is reported to be delightful and coin scarce.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

In consequence of a violent snow storm in Wyoming yesterday no telegraphic report came through last night, the lines being down.

The New York Button Company has failed: liabilities $100,000; actual assets about $50,000 in stock, machinery, etc.

The Government has taken measures to establish a direct telegraphic communication with Besika Bay, by way of Alexandria.

Tuttle, from the California Assembly Committee on Corporations, yesterday morning reported back the Mining Commissioner bill, with several amendments. The majority of the committee think that the bill will be a means of saving to stockholders several millions of dollars annually in reduced assessments, and by checking stock deals. The report was ordered printed.

Ex Supt. Schultz of the Justice, it is said, will sue the investigating committee for libel. The damages are set at $100,000. His friends claim that he never drew a dollar from the company, not even his salary.

John H. Pape of San Francisco says he gave the Chief of Police information as to the whereabouts of J. C. Duncan, which led to his arrest, and claims the $1,000 reward offered.

The Assembly Committee on Corporations, at their meeting last night, agreed to report favorably on a bill for the construction of a railroad from Truckee to Tahoe City, and adversely on Connolly's bill concerning the sale and transfer of stocks.

The California Assembly, after a long debate on the various freight and fare bills proposed by the Committee on Transportation, passed the bill on the subject known as Hart's bill.

The California Senate has finally passed Dean's water bill, directing the Water Commissioners to purchase, subject to the approval of the voters of San Francisco, Lake Merced, at a price not exceeding $2,200,000; the Spring Valley Water Company's property and franchises at a valuation not exceeding $12,000,000; the San Mateo Water Company's property and franchises at a price not exceeding $1,000,000, the city to issue 6 per cent. gold bonds, payable in 30 years, for the purchase of the property.

In consequence of the appointment of Cardinal Franchi, as Pontifical Secretary of State, the French Ambassador to the Vatican has applied to be recalled. Cardinal Franchi has sent a circular to the Papal Nuncios abroad requesting detailed information upon the relations with the respective governments to which they are accredited.

Augustus M. Turney, the defaulting paying teller of the Bank of North America, has been released on the criminal indictments against him on $10,000 bail.

It is said Russia and Persia are negotiating for an exchange of the district of Bayazid for certain Persian territory on the Caspian sea.

The Presidential Mansion when occupied by Jackson, Taylor and Johnson unquestionably heard some "tail swearing." These were all men of decided convictions, iron wills and strong passions. Hence they occasionally damned their enemies and persecutors. But profanity is reprehensible anywhere, and so we are told that when Mr. Hayes gets mad he modestly says, "Damn it, any how." Well, the world must be growing better, and Presidents less profane.

In the United States there are 79,000 miles of telegraph line and 6,850 telegraph offices, or one mile of line to every 36 square miles of area. England has 75,000 miles of line and 5,600 offices, or one mile of line to every 1 1/2 miles of area. Russia has 31,500 miles of line and 900 offices, or one mile of line to every 330 square miles of area.

The women of Cuba are sallow-complexion, weakly constitutions, nearly bald-headed, and wouldn't live at all but for the sake of gossip.

There are at present seventy-three children at the State Orphans' Home. This is the greatest number enrolled since the Home has been established.

CONCERNING LIBELS.

Mr. Hutchinson has brought a bill into the British Parliament to amend the law of libel, which proposes to enact that in any action against a newspaper for an alleged libel contained in a report of a public meeting of a representative character, proof that such libel was published bona fide, without actual malice, and in the ordinary course of business, shall be a good defence, unless the defendant had declined to publish an explanation of reasonable length and not containing libelous matter. It also provides that no proprietor of a newspaper is to be held criminally responsible for a libel published in his journal unless he is himself the author or joint author, or writer, or unless he saw it or had an opportunity of seeing it previous to publication, or unless he refuses to give the name of the author, or to publish an explanation or contradiction.

Bismarck is said to be entangled in pecuniary embarrassments. He bought Varzin and the adjoining estates after the war of 1866, and it was generally asserted that the purchase money far exceeded the real worth of the land. In order to obtain an interest corresponding to the large funds invested, he divided the estate into various small parts, which he let out to farmers, and furthermore plunged into speculative enterprises. He was instrumental in starting a joint stock company for the erection of a large paper mill, to which he exclusively furnished wood and other necessary materials. This company failed about a year ago, inflicting a serious loss upon Bismarck, who, besides holding the greater part of the shares, was one of the largest creditors, owing to the non-payment of his claims for some time previously. As his Landenberg estates, presented to him in acknowledgement of his great services after the late war with France, despite their immense value, only yield a comparatively small interest, his pecuniary embarrassments are now quite enough to account for his increasing irritability.

GORTSCHAKOFF is eighty years old, the richest man in Russia, and is considered the most agreeable diplomatist in Europe. One reason for his success is ascribed to the fact that he is not required to make speeches to the country. The Pall Mall Gazette says he talks slowly, writes grandiloquently, and gives high-minded reasons for everything he advises or does. Persons who might have expected him to explain some tortuous piece of policy on cynical grounds are staggered by his semblance of perfect good faith, and by the reassuring promises which he makes in a tone of stately gentleness, to which his venerable appearance gives the stamp of wisdom and truth. His strength is patience; his talent lies in seizing opportunities the moment they arrive; and these opportunities come through the simplicity of the foreigners who trust him.

The Cherry Creek Independent of the 4th instant announces a change of proprietorship and hoists the name of A. V. Bell as editor and publisher, who says: "As to any sort of a platform to govern our future course, we give none, since such an institution, in the language of a candid contemporary, is 'made to catch votes'—a sort of political or editorial farce, in fact we sort of feel that way ourselves, so far as it might be applied to the political texture of these columns. But don't be surprised should we be on the fence and off the fence, on one side and on the other side, to suit anybody and everybody, cut and slash until the public may imagine the paper is presided over by the 'devil' of the office, who will run the establishment like the devil and to the devil."

A doctor in Brooklyn, who has made a study of the subject, makes the rather startling announcement that not one person in three has legs of equal length and it seems that as a general thing left legs are the longer. This will no doubt account for the difficulty that men sometimes have in getting home late in the evening. The difference in the length of the limbs is stated to be a quarter of an inch. This is probably one of the reasons that a person describes a circle when lost in the woods.

A New Hampshire postmaster who refused to lick on a postage stamp for an old lady learned, when it had been altered, that she had left him $10,000 in her will. His tongue now hangs to the public.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, March 18, 1878. The Star of Wednesday evening has this to say of the diversity of sentiment existing in the Cabinet relative to the silver bill, and of the temptuous sea of conflicting advice over which the President is to navigate the ship of State: The President is inclined to believe that it is his duty to veto the silver bill, but is willing to be convinced otherwise. Hence the Cabinet discussion yesterday. His constitutional advisers pull different ways. Their words of advice are too contradictory to influence him much one way or the other. One member wants the country to have silver dollars, honestly if it can, if not, to have silver (Bland) dollars. Two or three are disposed to advise the signature of the bill under protest. The rest of the Cabinet think that consistency requires a veto. On a square vote it is likely that those favoring a veto would be a majority. The Secretary of the Treasury does not occupy the isolated position of stern and uncompromising opposition to the bill assigned to him by the newspapers. Secretary Schurz favors a veto. The chances are that a message from the President accompanying a veto will be sent to Congress to-morrow or Friday. Whatever his decision the President will communicate his reasons to Congress.

From the large number of bills substantially restoring the emasculated features of the BLAND BILL. Which have been introduced in the House since it was agreed to concur in the Senate amendments, it appears certain that no stone will be left unturned to compass inflation; for it cannot be doubted it is that, neither more nor less, that is aimed at by a majority of the original advocates of the Bland bill and who denounced and refused to vote for the Senate modifications. The telegraph and mails are said to be burdened with messages and letters, particularly from the West, imploring the President to waive, if possible, his objections to the bill now before him, and thus make a finality, for this session at least, of financial legislation. It is urged that nothing could be more detrimental to all our material interests than the present doubt and uncertainty hanging over them. Many dread the effect that a renewal of the agitation of the last six months will have should a veto kill the pending bill; and then comes the consideration that should it be defeated, a bill much more radical and sweeping would go through with a whirl at the very next session of Congress. Most of the colossal

RAILROAD SCHEMES.

Of the past are eclipsed and thrown woolly in the shade by the magnificent plan introduced the other day to the notice of the House by a member whose name I have forgotten. Headquarters are to be in New York as is the headquarters of almost everything else that is good, virtuous, beautiful, of good report and great utility, besides others not so accurately defined by this combination of adjectives and nouns. Its sinosities are to be almost innumerable, accommodating almost every town and hamlet in the southwest, and some other sections with railroad facilities. Its first cost is to amount to the bagatelle of $200,000,000. The unfavorable auguries fairly deducible from the heavy majority formerly committed against subsidies, and from the ungracious, rather cavalier treatment accorded the modest request of the whisky and tobacco rings seem to have led the railroad lobby managers to keep their forces well out of sight the past week; but the fact must not be accepted as evidence that they have abandoned the various schemes and jobs they are here to promote. They will be heard from in good time. It looks somewhat as though the little knot of

SMALL-FRY POLITICIANS.

Who were awarded the Life Saving Service as the share of the public funds which their services entitled them to disburse; had already organized their forces to oppose the proposition of Mr. Sargent's bill to transfer that little bonanza to the care and custody of the Navy Department. The ground of opposition as signed in the protest that came to the Senate Wednesday was that the knowledge required of those in the Life Saving Service is such as is acquired by fishermen rather than by those attached to the Navy. But there is no evidence showing that any of the Washington officials having charge of that institution are, or ever were, experts in the fishing business. On the contrary, the only experience they have that specially fits them for the responsible places they nominally fill has been acquired about the Executive Department here in Washington. The refusal of the President to re-appoint

SIMMONS AS COLLECTOR.

At Boston, bids fair to bring again in review all his utterances relative to Civil Service Reform; and the professions of a Massachusetts Senator in the same line, who is credited with having influenced the result by personal appeals in behalf of his candidate, will no doubt be made the subject of Butler's dissecting knife.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Here seems to have settled down to the belief that the members of the Returning Board are to be left to the tender mercies of the Louisiana bulldozer; that if the President had been able to find any ground upon which to base interference in their behalf, it would be so opposed in spirit to their concessions made last Spring that he will decline to have anything to do with the matter, except to modify as far as he can by moral suasion the punishment to be inflicted.

LOGAN.

There is a bill before Congress asking for an increase of pension for officers who served in the Mexican war, and also for pensioning all whose names were on the rolls of the army in the Mexican and Florida wars. It is estimated that the annual cost of such pensions would be about five million dollars. Cheap enough; let the old soldiers have it. Congress throws away millions every year upon projects which have no claim upon the country; but here is a chance to repay, in part, the Republic's gratitude to her brave sons who defended her in the hour of peril, and who largely extended our national domain.

As showing that the pinch of poverty felt among certain classes on this coast is by no means exceptional we print the following from a Newburyport (Mass.) paper: "We do not remember to have seen the times so hard in this town since 1837 as now. There are men working gladly at from fifty to seventy-five cents per day, and comparatively few who earn more than a dollar; and there are many girls in the workshops who do not exceed twenty cents, and very few who earn eighty cents. There are no strikes for wages, because it is a question of bread, and mighty little can some of them get to feed families."

MICHIGAN is the only State in the Union having a law which requires all petroleum or kerosene oil brought into the State for sale to be absolutely non-explosive under all ordinary circumstances. It costs more to refine oil to the Michigan standard, but we should not growl at the few cents extra when consumers are guaranteed almost perfect immunity from accident. The best part of the law is that it is rigidly enforced in every section of the State.

PRESIDENT PORTER, of Yale College is said to be one of the first Biblical scholars living, and yet in a contribution to the last "North American Review" he substantially gives up the orthodox belief of a place called Tophet. Now, what are we coming to? If liberal theologians and college presidents can abolish or annihilate Tophet, why can't they rub out Heaven in like manner? Is Christianity advancing or receding?

The first State election this Spring occurs in New Hampshire on the second Tuesday in March. As yet we hear but little about it, but unquestionably the managers of both parties are making calculations as to how much money will be required to purchase votes enough to carry the election. Cash rules the ballot-box now and the proud freeman in New England annually asks, "How much do you pay for a vote?"

The British navy was never so powerful as it is to-day, even taking into account the progress made by its competitors. From 1866 to 1874 $57,000,000 were spent on new ships. The present fleet consists of nearly 400 of all kinds, with a tonnage of about 900,000,000.

MR. DELANE, so long the editor of the London Times, has been so thoroughly prostrated by paralysis that he has to be supported by two men when he moves. The falling off alike in circulation and in authority of the great journal since he was compelled to abandon the helm is attracting general attention in England.

SAYS Charles O'Connor: "No person should ever plead guilty. He's got as many chances before a jury as a perfectly innocent man."

SOMEONE says that Longfellow is the best read man in the country. How about Spotted Tail and Red Cloud?

GENERAL ITEMS.

A multitude was collected in a San Francisco street by the sight of a man and a woman fighting on a roof. He had forced her out of a window, and was trying to haul her to the ground. The excitement among the spectators rose to a high pitch, when two men climbed up a ladder to rescue the woman, which they did with great danger and difficulty.

The contest over the enormous fortune of James Kirby of Cincinnati has resulted in a victory for the natural heirs. Kirby was, during many years, foremost in wealth, respectability, and benevolence; but in his old age he fell into bad company, became scandalously dissipated, and made a will giving most of his property to three of his notorious new friends.

"The Kiss in the Dark" was played as a farce by amateurs in Mount Sterling, Ky., up to the point where the young man kisses the pretty girl. Then it was turned into a tragedy. The girl's real lover, jealous of her stage lover, and discerning that the kissing was genuine and much relished, shot the offender on the spot. The wound was trifling, but it brought the performance to a close.

While out hunting during a late storm a Texan encountered a herd of bewildered buffaloes numbering one hundred grown ones and about forty calves. The snow lay upon the ground to the depth of a foot. He was alone, but after several days hard work he secured the entire lot in a natural corral in the bend of a stream and, proceeding to the nearest town, sold them to an enterprising dealer for $500.

Jean Findonneau, according to the Paris Figaro, having a two-centime piece which he had industriously rubbed till it shone like gold, ordered and ate at an inn a royal supper, and, handing his coin to the table maid, said: "Here are twenty francs; bring me the change," and not till the day after did M. Findonneau find himself before the Correctional Tribunal.

According to the last report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in Texas, that State has yet subject to location 57,632,220 acres, but the Commissioner adds that, "Should the drafts be as great for the next five years as for the year past, by the close of the fiscal year 1881, Texas will have disposed of all her public domain." All the best lands in the organized counties are already appropriated.

The expenses of the 267 lifeboat stations on the coasts of England; Scotland, and Ireland during 1877 were £37,880. Of lives saved there were 1,041, calling for the distribution of ten silver medals, seventeen votes of thanks, and rewards in money amounting to £4,069. The cost of one English lifeboat, with carriage and equipment and boat house, averages $4,500, and it costs $850 per annum to keep each establishment in order.

The following tempting advertisement appeared in a recent issue of the London Times: "Cottage vicarage residence, in Dorset, to be let, furnished, for three months, April, May, June, very reasonable, lovely country; hill and dale lanes of ferns, carpeted with flowers, extensive views at every gate. Drawing, dining, study, painted walls, four bedrooms. Respectable servant. Verandah, lawn, garden, ample supply of kale, leeks, onions, carrots, turnips, beets, parsnips, spring flowers. A pet donkey, as gentle and wise as a bull dog, donkey carriage and cart; fowls and ducks in full lay; last, not least, a pet cat."

THE BEAR MOVEMENT AGAINST EUREKA CONSOLIDATED.

A Eureka dispatch of the 8th says: The report having been circulated to some extent here and in San Francisco that the Richmond is about to lay an injunction on the Eureka Consolidated, the Sentinel, referring to the rumor, will contain the following explanation of the matter: On the little tenth level of the Eureka Consolidated considerable ore has lately been extracted from a point near the dividing line between the two companies. It seems that the Richmond thought that the Eureka was over the line, and some talk of stopping them by legal proceedings has been indulged in, but is not likely that anything will come of it. As soon as satisfied by underground surveys that they are encroaching upon their neighbors the Eureka will discontinue operations at that point. Surveyors have been at work for two days defining the boundary. Other portions of the Eureka Consolidated are yielding more largely than ever, and the bonanza on the eleventh level is by far the most promising that has ever been developed on Ruby Hill. It is at this lowest point yet attained and is going down strong, carrying a vast amount of high grade. The whole affair seems to have been a movement of the bear element against Eureka Consolidated.

COOKING IN THE SUN'S RAYS.—In reference to the report that cooking by means of the sun's rays has been successfully tried at Bombay, the Athenaeum says, "that when Sir John Herschel was at the Cape of Good Hope, his luncheon chop was sometimes cooked for him by the heat of the sun, with similar apparatus." The apparatus consists simply of a tin-plated copper vessel having a glass cover and polished reflector.

An opposition stage line from Carson to Aurora and Bodie will soon be put on. The road is improving.

CARL SCHURZ AND CIVIL SERVICE.

Secretary Carl Schurz's sincere and intelligent devotion to civil-service reform has found a way—as a way is always to be found when there is a will—to put the reform into practical and illustrative operation in his department. The fairest field for civil-service reform is at present among the army of inferior clerks employed in the public business. The selection of the higher grades of officials raises many complicating considerations in minds inveterately accustomed to the old way of revewing public office as a political reward and responsibility. President Hayes' efforts at civil-service reform have for the most part been stranded on these obstacles. Mr. Schurz, beginning at the bottom and working upwards, has quietly achieved a practical success.

Since October last, rules founded upon the regulations of the not dead but sleeping civil-service commission have governed the appointments and changes in the multitudinous clerical force in the Interior Department. Appointments are made to the lowest grade of offices only, and not till a probationary appointment for six months has been secured in competitive examination. All vacancies in any upper grade are filled from lower, by competition among members of the next two lower grades; no promotion is permitted to jump over more than one grade, thus preserving for stimulus the useful pride in seniority and length of service. The new system has won its way completely with the clerks themselves and all who witness the immense advantages it offers over the old system of intrigue and favoritism in appointments and displacements in the clerk service of the department.

Mr. Schurz's judicious care in introducing the experiment is shown in his conceding the suspension of the operation of the rules in the cases of women employed in the department. No doubt the very worst and most disgraceful abuses of the civil-service exist among this class of clerks at Washington. But the Secretary wisely refrained from pressing the rules where a clamor of sentimental sympathy and prejudice might have jeopardized his whole enterprise. This incident strongly illustrates two things—how practical a man Schurz, the "civil-service idealist and reforming visionary" is, and how thriving and promising an infant the reform becomes when put to a friendly nurse in the place of executive control.—Boston Transcript.

ONCE a criminal, always a criminal, seems to be the rule. When the new King of Italy came to the throne he magnanimously allowed most of the prisoners in Rome to go free. The ungrateful miscreants made Rome howl when they got out, and nearly all of them are now in the lock-up charged with new offenses.

It has been resolved by the Storey County Board of County Commissioners that C. F. Reynolds be appointed official reporter for the case of James Harrington, who was sent from Storey county to Washoe county. This resolution is in the nature of a recommendation to Washoe county.

At the Reno Exchange will be found White & Block, ready to receive their friends in the true Reno style. All kinds of liquors and fine wines usually found on sale at first-class drinking places may always be had at the Reno Exchange. Let those who would be treated well and often call and see White & Block.

Some building is going on in different parts of this burg. J. Paul Grey has built himself a house in the Western Addition, which is as neat as any in town. Great taste has been displayed in its entire arrangement. Donald McKay is building another brick near his residence on Peavine street.

Services at the Baptist Church at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. Dr. Hutchins will give a short lecture in the evening on the "Doctrine of Mahomet." Sabbath School immediately after the morning service. Seats free and all cordially invited.

The Congregational society, held at the residence of Donald McKay, last Friday night, was highly enjoyed by all who attended. The spacious edifice was filled to overflowing with guests who lingered until a late hour.

We are building up a massive criminal record in Washoe county. No sooner did we get rid of the notorious Rover case, than we have Harrington and Ah Chooney on our hands to give us more reputation.

The Catholics have purchased that entire block on which their church stands. They contemplate making valuable improvements thereon in a short time.

FRANK B. MERCEB, of the Sinto Independent came to town last evening. Sorry we were not in when he called. Step in again, friend.

The town looked lively last night; in fact Saturday night is a sort of market day (excuse the bull) with our people.

The dog poisoners seem to be out in force once more. The wrecks of several barks have been visible lying around loose lately.

Our Governor has not had to sit on anybody for some time. Times are too dull for such things as inquests.

Runaway.

A little excitement was caused on Second street yesterday morning by the rapid transit down the street of Larcombe's horse, to which was attached his delivery wagon containing several articles of merchandise. The runaway was stopped near the V. & T. bridge, having distributed various parcels in a very short space of time. No serious damage done.

Circus Items.

Adam Forepaugh, proprietor of Forepaugh's great circus and menagerie, and Robert Filkins, advance agent, passed through night before last on their way to California to set the great caravan in order for the Summer tour. They expect to be along here and give an exhibition some time in June.

Personal.

Mr. Chas. Nathan, brother of M. Nathan, was in town yesterday. Charlie used to be with us, but is now the manager of the Grass Valley clothing house of M. Nathan & Bro. We are glad to see him looking so well.

Trustees' Meeting.

At a meeting of the Fire Trustees held last night, all bills against the department were ordered paid. It was also ordered that the hook and ladder truck be repaired. Nothing else of importance was done.

BODIE MINING NEWS.

The Standard represents the situation at Bodie to be as follows:

The week has developed nothing of importance in any of our mines. The usual amount of work is being done, and from the ore producing mines the average number of tons have been extracted, all of which are assayed and milled up to the usual milling and assays of preceding ores. The Standard is milling its forty-five tons per day, and the new shaft is being pushed down rapidly and has made nearly twenty feet progress during the week with small stringers and feeders of quartz showing in the bottom. During the past two days the mill has been shut down in order to make some necessary repairs in the machinery, and at the same time the shaft had some retimbering and other work done; but to-day everything is on the keen jump again. The Blackhawk, too, appears to be making fair progress, and will probably develop something in a short time worthy of note. They have been running in very hard rock lately, but now have changed the course of the drifts and will run along the foot wall hereafter, as progress will be easier than by following the hanging wall where the rock is much harder. All of what may be termed outside mines having been doing more or less work, and developments may be expected any week, though, owing to lack of material to work with, progress is necessarily slow, and will not assume shape for rapid work until further opening of Spring.

The Swedish Government have decided to guard their department at the Paris Exhibition with a company of picked infantry soldiers. Probably the Swedes fear an attack of the umbrella, parasol and cane-pokers who visited the Centennial.

THE TASCARA, FAVORITE.

The Tascara Times-Review of Thursday has the annexed about the drop in Grand Prize and the condition of the mine:

Yesterday there was much talk around town about the drop in Grand Prize, and during the day we called over at the mine for the purpose of ascertaining if there was anything of interest in or about the mine or mill, but everything was juggling along as usual. For the benefit of those who are guessing and discussing the stock we will state a few facts ascertained during our trip. The mill has not been shut down, but yesterday ten stamps and one of the furnaces were laid up part of the day for the purpose of putting new cams in the battery, although about dark all twenty stamps were doing their accustomed work, with plenty of ore to keep them busy, and as far as can be seen there is enough of very high grade sulphuret ore in sight in the mine to warrant any person in stating that the ledge is able to run the mill for an indefinite period, the bears' stories to the contrary notwithstanding. Tuesday night another good sized chimney of enormously rich gold and sulphuret ore was cut in the east winze on the 350 level, and the winze shows the ledge to be fully as good as ever to its bottom. The pumps are all in full operation, and have all the water they can handle, very little less than twenty-five miner's inches of water being steadily forced to the surface. This is the great drawback now, as the boilers have not the capacity to furnish all the steam desired, but the two new ones are in Carlin, if not on their way here, and then power will be more plentiful. There will be no difficulty in hoisting all the ore that the twenty stamps can crush, and with it maintaining its usual high grade we fail to see any reason why the stock should go down or its holders feel shaky. Certainly the mine justifies the belief that its appearance for permanence were never more flattering than now, but if the bears can't secure their fill they will tear down the stock. At the early session of the Board yesterday the stock sold as low as 9 1/2, but upon the regular afternoon call it rallied and sold strong at 10 1/2 and 10 3/4.

"FUTURE OF THE REPUBLIC."—Ralph Waldo Emerson, the philosopher of Concord, delivered a lecture in Boston last Tuesday, on the "Future of the Republic." It was characterized by the usual philosophy and originality of the orator, the prevailing idea being that the Republic will advance only by education, honesty and patriotism. Of politics, as now exhibited in every town and State, he has little faith, and on this point remarked as follows:

"Our politics are covered with shame. The spirit of our political economy is low and degraded. The individual man exists for his own sake, and not to add to the welfare of the State. Parties sacrifice men to measures. The partisan or moral questions, even on religious questions, or on temperance, will choose a perfect rogue who can answer the test questions in preference to an honest man, and an influential, intelligent gentleman."

VIOLENT WIND AND SNOW STORM.—PASSENGER AND FREIGHT TRAINS ELOCKADED ON THE U. P. R. R.—A Ch. yenne dispatch of March 5th says:

A violent snow-storm, accompanied by a northeast wind, set in at 11 o'clock last night and still continues. It extends eastward as far as Julesburg, and westward as far as Rawlins. Passenger train No. 3 is side-tracked at Autelope and No. 4 at Laramie. All freight trains are tied up. Nothing will move until the storm abates, when snowplows and all available motive power will proceed in both directions. The emigrant train due here to-day is snowed in on the main track between Bushnell and Pine Bluffs. The snowsheds west can scarcely be distinguished from the drifts, which are even with their roofs. Wind now fifty-two miles per hour.

Some one has started the rumor that Mark Twain is lazy. This is not so. He acknowledges himself that there is not a word of truth in the statement. The misapprehension arose from the peculiar method he has of taking his vacations. In a letter to a Detroit, dated Feb. 14th, Mark explains the matter. He says: "I am taking my holidays now. When the rest of the world begins to take its holiday I mean to go to work. The longer I live the more I see the rashness of putting off your holiday till Summer. You might die, you know." Instead of being lazy, Mark has four books under way. He has the title of each nicely written out in a plain hand, and the first chapters headed off. Mark intends to try the effect of a cheap edition of his sketches. He has his valise packed and ticket ready should an indignant people resent this new literary move.

Congress had better sober up a little before it sheds any tears over the demoralized social character of the private soldier. It's too much like a slobber just now.

There is about six feet of snow on the level in Lake District.
